The fertility of the soil, the quantity of timber which is now upon the land (not one third part having as yet been cut down) will, I presume, render this place a very desirable purchase.—One half of the purchase money to be paid on the day of sale, and the other half at two equal annual payments. Bond, with approved security, will be required.

Any Gentleman who wishes to see the land, will apply to Mr. James Edmonson, adjoining the premises.

FRENCH and DANCING SCHOOLS.

MR. CURLEY informs the Public that he continues to teach French, at his house, in Fairfax-Street. He flatters himself with giving full satisfaction to all who are pleased to employ him as a Teacher.

Ladies and Gentlemen may be waited on, and taught either French or Dancing, at their own apartments, at select hours of the day, with care and assiduity.

The advertiser has sufficiently evinced to his scholars that his ambition is to remove all difficulties, to ensure to his pupils the speaking of French, in making study as pleasing and as easy as possible; and persons who have already begun to learn, and want either more theory to perfect themselves, or practice to acquire a true pronunciation, will find their purposes answered.

During the ensuing seasons the schools will be kept at the following times, viz.—The French School every Monday and Thursday Nights, and every Saturday Morning—and the Dancing School every Wednesday and Friday Night.

He purposes also to give private lessons at his house, on divers Minuets, Couillions, &c. &c. in the daytime, by which, in a short time, persons may be enabled to dance, with propriety, Set-Dances at the Assemblies.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

KING'S BENCH.

MONDAY was tried before Lord Kenyon and a Special Jury, an action brought by the Executors of Mr. Seas, against the surviving partners of the American Company, instituted for raising and manufacturing iron and pot ash, to recover a large sum of money upon a bill of exchange.

It appeared in evidence, that Mr. Hasleclever was a partner with, and appointed Agent of, the company in America. Mr. Willis was the Agent in London. Hasleclever was in the habit of drawing bills upon Willis; the bill in question was given for money actually received and applied to the Company's use; it was drawn upon Willis, presented and protested for non payment. It was marked at the top and in the body A. C. importing that it was the Company's Bill. The partnership was proved.

Lord Kenyon said, if Hasleclever was authorized by the Company to draw bills, they were liable to every extent such bills were drawn, otherwise the commercial world would be deceived and injured.
If the partner in America drew more than he was authorized, it would not prevent the rest of the Company from being liable for the bill in question.

Verdict for the Plaintiffs 400l. upon the bill, and 440l. for the interest and damages, it having been lent to America for non-acceptance.

P A R I S July 17.

Ceremony of the Grand Confederation at Paris, on the Anniversary of their Freedom.

We have it now in our power to lay before our readers an account of a spectacle that has no parallel in history.

That a King, who, but a twelvemonth ago, was despotic, and twenty four millions of people, who were slaves, should, in so short a space, have undergone a change—he, lowered to the proper station of a Chief Magistrate—they, elevated to the just standard of freemen—and all agreeing to meet together, and swear upon the altar, to preserve a system they had erected—is so splendid an era in the annals of human affairs, as to call forth all the powers of the Bard, the Philosopher, and the historian; and, we trust, the ablest pens will be employed in its description.

A proclamation was published by the King, on the 13th, arranging the whole order of the procession, and appointing the Sieur de la Fayette Major-General of the Federation; and, in this quality, his orders were to be considered as coming immediately from the King. The Sieur de Gouvion was appointed Major-General en-second.

On Tuesday the 13th, the King reviewed the Deputies from the eighty-three departments of the nation, on which occasion the populace filled the air with shouts of Vive le Roi. Since the arrival of the Deputies at Paris, his Majesty's body guard had been composed of drafts from them, the troops of the line, and the Parisian guards.

At the Metropolitan church Te Deum was performed with a band consisting of all the performers of the Royal Academy of Music, and those belonging to the various places of public amusement. The Electors, the Representatives of the Commons of Paris, the Deputies of the National Departments, and a vast concourse of people attended.

By way of introduction to Te Deum, a Harisodram, composed of verses from the Psalms and books of Prophets, applicable to the purpose of the ceremony, was performed. An overture by M. des Augiers, composed for the occasion, communicated the most lively impressions, and produced the grandest effects. The memorable evening that preceded July 14th, 1789, was described with all the truth of expression; a long of victory announced the fall of the baleful Castle where despotism held his seat; a citizen called on the victorious people to give thanks to the supreme disposer of events;—Populi laudate Deum, and a grand chorus, which began the Te Deum, answered the call of the citizen.

On Wednesday morning, at 6 o'clock, all the persons appointed to assist in the procession assembled on the Boulevards, between the gate of St. Martin and the gate of St. Antoine, and the procession was arranged in the following order:—

A troop of Horse, with a Standard, and six Trumpets.

One division of the Music, consisting of several hundred Instruments.

A Company of Grenadiers.

The Electors of the City of Paris.

A Company of Volunteers.

The Assembly of the Representatives of the Commons.

The Military Committee.

A Company of Chasseurs.

A Band of Drums.

The Presidents of the Districts.

The Deputies of the Commons appointed to take for them the Federal Oath.

The Sixty Administrators of the Municipality, with the City Guards.

Second Division of Music.

A Battalion of Children carrying a Standard, with the words,—“The Hopes of the Nation.”

A Detachment of the Colours of the National Guard of Paris.

A Battalion of Veterans.

The Deputies of the thirty-two first Departments of the Nation in alphabetical Order.

The Oriflame; or, grand Standard of the King, borne by a cornette-blanche of France in the first rank of the Deputies of the troops of the line, composed of Marshals of France.

General Officers.

Officers of the Staff.

Commissioners of War.

Invalids.
 Lieutenants of the Mareschals of France;
 Deputies of Infantry.
 Deputies of Cavalry.
 Deputies of Hussars, Dragoons and Chasseurs.
 General Officers and Deputies of the Marine, according to rank.
 The Deputies of the forty one last Departments in alphabetical order.
 A Company of Volunteer Chasseurs.
 A Company of Cavalry, with a Standard and two Trumpets.

The procession being formed in this manner made a most noble appearance; for the varieties of emblematic ornaments were endless.—Every Order was marked by distinguishing indications of the district from which they came, or the body which they represented; and, in doing this, much fruitful fancy had been employed to make the marks serve for ornaments as well as distinction.

The military deputies had only their side arms. In each division a banner, indicative of the department, was borne by the oldest person in the first rank, and the ranks were formed eight abreast. The procession passed along the streets of St. Denis, of the Feronnierie, St. Honore, Royale, to the palace of Louis XV. where they halted, and the detachment of the colours of the National Guard of Paris, opening to the right and left, received into the centre the Members of the National Assembly, who were thus surrounded and escorted by the body who had before protected them.

The procession then moved on through the Cour de la Reine along the Quay to the bridge of boats, over which they passed, and from whence they entered the Champ de Mars.

In entering the Champ de Mars, the cavalry marched off to the right, and ranged themselves in the exterior line on the opposite side to the entrance. The company of grenadiers formed under the steps of the Amphitheatre, as well as all the companies that were employed as escorts.

The civil bodies took the places allotted to them in the Amphitheatre. The battalion of children formed about a hundred paces from the Grand Altar, crossing the Champ de Mars, but facing the Altar.

While the National Assembly passed through the Triumphant Arch, the escort of colours passed through the two last gates; and the Members took their seats on the right and left of the Chair of State, and the Chair of their own President.

The battalion of veterans was placed a hundred paces behind the Altar, across the Champ de Mars, but facing the Altar.

The detachments of National Guards, appointed to take the oath, ranged themselves each under the banner indicative of his place in the Amphitheatre.

The music, now all collected into one immense band, occupied the side of the platform under the Altar next to the invalids; the band of drums the opposite side.

The detachment of cavalry that closed the procession, formed the exterior line on the side where they entered, opposite to the first detachment.

While the Deputies were taking their seats, the entrances to the tier of elevated benches, that surrounded this immense Amphitheatre, were opened, and the people of all ranks and of both sexes, the ladies all dressed in white, took their places. These benches, rising thirty in number, above one another, and extending an immense way, were capable of containing, as it is said, 300,000 persons.

Their Majesties entered the Champ de Mars through the Military School, and took their places to assist in the ceremony, in a superb box erected for the occasion, and elevated about fifteen feet.

The foreign Ministers took their places in an elegant box near them.

As soon as they were seated, after a solemn invocation to God, the grand standard and all the banners of the several departments were brought up to the platform, and received benedictions; after which they were carried back to their several Stations. High mass was then celebrated. After which, the Nation, thus assembled, proceeded to the great object of the day.

The Major-General having announced the solemnity, the Assembly all rose, and the King approached the Grand Altar, and swore in the presence of God, and several hundred thousands of his people—

"I, Louis, Citizen, King of the French, do swear that I will employ the whole power delegated to me by the constitutional Law of the State to maintain the Constitution, and enforce the execution of the Law."

His Majesty was followed by the President of the National Assembly, who took the oath to the Nation, the Law and the King, while all the other Members, holding up their right hands, pronounced Je le jure.

The Sieur de la Fayette (we give him his own appellation) then took the oath for himself, and all the other Deputies of the eighty three Departments of the National Guards, who, all standing, pronounced after him, Je le jure; and these words with uplifted hands, were solemnly pronounced by every individual of the immense assembly.

Te Deum was then sung; and never was there an occasion, where solemn thanksgiving to God was more proper, or when it was given with more fervour or devotion, or a purer gratitude of heart. The performance was lofty beyond the powers of description. Never did France see such an orchestra, and never surely did the world behold such an audience. Their numbers baffled the eye to reckon. Their shouts rent the skies, when, in the enthusiasm of joy, they mingled acclamations of rapture with the effusions of piety; and yet in their attention to the grand and solemn parts of the national passion, silence, the most profound, testified the interest that they felt; and decorum, order, peace, and concord, reigned through the immense multitude.

The ceremony being ended, the procession moved off in the order in which it entered, and then the detachments filed off to the tents in the adjacent grounds, where a colation was provided, of which, strange as it may sound, several hundred thousands partook. Every part of the neighbouring country was covered with tents, and in various appointed places, dinner and wine were delivered to the poor, gratis.

A grand illumination closed the triumphs of the day; and the only breach of the peace that took place through the whole was provoked by the stubborn obstinacy of some inveterate Aristocrats, who did not light up their houses, or who had fled with their domestics, and let their windows dark emblems of their own mind. They fell a prey to the indignation of the populace; and all the massacre of this day, so much dreaded in anticipation, was the massacre of some thousand panes of glass.

M. D'Orleans attended and sat in his place as one of the Members of the National Assembly. He had gained much popularity by a short appeal to his country, in which he called upon them to try him, if they had any charge to exhibit against him, but to try him, not by judges, but by a jury.

BOSTON, September 11.

THE PRESIDENT'S PORTRAIT.

Is finished by TRUMBULL—and a fine thing it is; designed and executed in his superior style of excellence. It is a full length, in his uniform of blue and buff—boots and spurs—head uncovered—most nobly relieved, in contrast with a luminous cloud and fine light sky—nearly a front position, with his right hand and arm thrown on the saddle of an elegant white horse, with inimitable ease—the beast in the action of biting the middle joint of his near foreleg.—This position of the horse shows his neck to great advantage, while it leaves the PRESIDENT's head, as it ought to be, the most conspicuous object in the picture. There are distant prospects of particular and interesting scenes, as accompaniments. The whole piece is designed to convey to posterity an idea of THE MAN, at that most interesting period when he finished his career of military glory—the evacuation of New-York. It is therefore a warm, and highly animated business in every respect.

ALEXANDRIA, September 30.

Extract of a letter from Cadiz, to a Gentleman of this Town, August 2.

"I have just received a letter from Mr. —, of St. Lucar, in which he mentions that his partner, Mr. —, has a letter from the English Minister, at Madrid, informing that all differences between this country and Great-Britain, are settled, &c."

Extract of another, to the same, Aug. 8.

"We have been under apprehensions of a war, but they have a good deal subsided, and I hope we may enjoy a long peace, and that it may become general."

SAMUEL GRIFFIN and WILLIAM B. GILES, Esquires, are re-elected Representatives to Congress. VENABLE, Esq. is elected in the room of ISAAC COLES, Esq. who declined offering.

At a meeting of the deputies from a number of the counties of Maryland, at Annapolis, (the Hon. William Smallwood, Esq. President) for the purpose of fixing on proper characters to recommend to the people as their Representatives in Congress, at the approaching election, the following ticket was earnestly recommended to the patronage and warm support of the people of that State:

First District,	Michael Jenifer Stone,	} Esquires.
Second District,	James Tilghman, of James,
Third District,	Benjamin Contee,
Fourth District,	George Gale,
Fifth District,	Samuel Sterett,
Sixth District,	Daniel Carroll,

The following Ticket has also been agreed upon at a meeting of the inhabitants of Baltimore-Town, viz.

First District,	Philip Key,	} Esquires.
Second District,	Johna Seney,
Third District,	William Pinckney,
Fourth District,	Samuel Sterett,
Fifth District,	William V. Murray,
Sixth District,	Upton Sheridan,

Extract of a letter from Annapolis, to a Gentleman in George-Town, Sept. 24.

"The members who assembled here have finished the business of their deputation, and returned home. I believe there was great difference of sentiment and opinion amongst them. The ticket agreed upon, is the effect of mutual concession. I am sure you will think a better list might have been formed; but I have no doubt you would have acceded to, and subscribed it, had you been of the meeting. They wished Mr. Chase to be in the nomination, but he would not consent to it. He was applied to and particularly solicited to serve for this district, where he would have had an almost unanimous vote; indeed, by information from every part of the State, it clearly appears to be the general wish of every rank and description of people, that he should be elected. He replied, that while he had any thing, he was willing to sacrifice it to the service of his country—that he had now nothing, and could not give up the very existence of his family."

Capt. Howland, who arrived at New-York 22d instant, in 36 days from Lisbon, informs that the English Consul in that port had given liberty to all the British vessels, that had been detained there by his orders, under apprehensions of hostilities speedily taking place, to depart as soon as they thought proper. This seems to corroborate the advice brought by Capt. Watson from the fleet at Torbay, purporting that the disputes between England and Spain were amicably settled.

There is a report current in New-York, that a free navigation of the Mississippi is ceded to the United States by the court of Spain.

A London paper of July 17th has the following paragraph:—"If we may form any judgment from the extraordinary press on Wednesday and Thursday, war must be inevitable—1600 men were taken—no protections availed—and even the subjects of the United States, on resistance, did not go without their stripes."

On Friday, the 8th of October, an oration will be delivered in the Presbyterian Meeting House, by LUDWELL LEE, Esq. member of the Alexandria Society for the Promotion of Useful Knowledge; at which time there will be a Concert of Instrumental Music.—Tickets of Admission may be had of Mr. ROBERT MEASE, Treasurer, at One Shilling and Sixpence each.

The delivery of a public oration annually, was, for a variety of reasons, made an article in the Society's Constitution; and, in order to defray incidental charges, as well as to give some check to a promiscuous admittance, they conceived it expedient to dispose of the tickets at the price above mentioned. Any surplus which may remain, after paying contingent expenses, will be appropriated to the increase of their fund, upon the enlargement of which one principal end of the institution entirely depends.

It was the intention of the Society to have communicated to the public, through the medium of the Alexandria paper, sketches or fugitive essays on the various subjects which might from time to time have come under investigation; nor have they been entirely without the means of fulfilling it; but the infancy of the association, together with the consequent instability of the original system, have caused a want of exertion on the part of the Committee of Correspondence.—But they feel themselves authorized to assure the public that, before the expiration of another year, the accomplishment of many important objects of the institution will be found to have a promising beginning.

SHOE-STRINGS.

IN ancient times when strings in shoes were worn, Your beaux esprits turn'd up their nose in scorn; And wits of Britain hurl'd the shafts of satire, To ridicule the shoe-string legislator.— But, vanquish'd by this brave, this shoe-string foe— And all their tow'ring schemes of pride laid low, Good-humour'd grown, they take from us the fashion, And shoe-strings now adorn the British Nation.

I WISH to employ a person qualified to take charge of a Saw and Merchant-Mill—Any person who can be well recommended for the above business, as well as for his honesty and industry, I am willing to engage upon terms, which will not be disadvantageous to him.

I should prefer a married man, and one who is proof against any secret and malevolent influence, as it is not improbable his continuance for any time with me, will, in a great measure, depend upon the latter.

Alexandria, 24th Sept. 1790.

CASH for RAGS.

The highest Price is given at the Printing-Office for clean Linen and Cotton Rags.—No Arguments, it should seem, would be necessary to induce the Holders of this, to them, worthless Article, to exchange it for the most valuable one; especially when, by so doing, they will not only promote their own Interest, but encourage American Manufactures.

POET'S CORNER.

THE FRANK LOVER.

NOT, Chloe, that I'm more sincere,
Or am less apt to rove,
That I a heart to constant bear,
So faithful in it's love.

Indeed, my Chloe, like the rest,
From fair to fair I'd range,
But that it's more my interest,
Still to love on than change.

All charms which others recommend,
In thee alone I find;
Beauty and temper sweetly blend,
The handsome and the kind.

Then why should I inconstant prove?
Why other nymphs pursue?
When Man has all that he can love,
'Tis prudence to be true.

FOR SALE.

On a long credit, for the joint benefit of the Hon. Henry A. Bennett, and the Hon. Henry Lee, Esqrs. ONE Thousand Three Hundred Ten and an Half ACRES of the most valuable LAND and IRON ORE BANKS on Patowmack River. This land lies on Patowmack River and Catostan-Creek; upon the former it extends upwards of 500 poles, and upon the latter upwards of 600. It is distant from Alexandria about 50 miles; from George-Town 40; from the Great-Falls 30; from Leesburg 10; from Frederick-Town 10; from Shepherd's-Town 20; from Winchester 30; and from Fort-Cumberland 100.—It is well timbered and watered; great part of it of such richness of soil, as to be capable of producing any kind of crop that can be put into it.—For the accommodation and ease of any person that may wish to purchase less than the whole, we have divided this land into four lots, that will be sold separately.—The greatest part of the land, it is supposed, has an abundance of iron-ore in it: It is, however, reduced to a certainty, that two of the lots contain extensive and inexhaustible quantities of it lying near to, and some upon, the very brink of the river's bank.—With these will be sold the right of taking iron-ore and lime-stone from off another tract adjoining, forever. Upon the same lots the conveniences for furnaces, forges, &c. are equal to any for such purposes.

The purchaser, or purchasers, must give bond, with approved security, for the payment of the purchase-money.—One fourth in 6, another in 12, the next in 18, and the last payment in 24 months from the day of sale.—The plat and title-papers may be seen by applying to R. T. HOOE, in this Town.

1181 acres.

The above lands are nearly adjoining, and situated in Washington County, Maryland, on Fifteen-Mile Creek, just at its junction with Patowmack river.—They are chiefly level bottom, of a fine quality, and abound in a variety of excellent timber. There is a dwelling-house, and a small plantation cleared on one of the tracts, through which goes the main road leading to the Western Country, and is a fine stand for a tavern. Contiguous to these lands are small mountains, which must forever secure to the holders of them an inexhaustible range for stock. The navigation of the river is already perfected considerably above this property. They will be sold either or Cash, or upon Credit. The terms may be known by applying to Dr. WILLIAM BAKER, or THOMAS H. HANSON.

LANDS FOR SALE ON A LONG CREDIT

By virtue of a Power of Attorney from the Right Hon. Charles Earl of Tankerville, and the Hon. Henry A. Bennett, Esq; we will sell the following TRACTS or PARCELS of LAND, at any time when we can agree with a purchaser or purchasers. One fourth part of the purchase-money to be paid in six months; another fourth in twelve months; another in eighteen months; and the balance in two years from the day of sale; the purchaser, or purchasers, giving bond, with approved security for payment of the purchase-money, with interest thereon from the day of sale, if the payments are not punctually made at the stipulated periods.—Viz.

THREE LOTS a Cliff; one containing 65 acres; another 245½; the other 263½; all adjoining; but will be sold separately, or in a body, as may best suit purchasers. The nearest of these lots are not more than one, and the most distant more than two miles from the rising Town of Alexandria; convenient to fishing and fowling; some of the land cleared, under fences, and has dwelling and other necessary houses, with a quantity of timber, and a very great stock of wood upon it. One of them on Hunting-Creek has the advantage of a fine hill, from whence there is a beautiful prospect of Alexandria, the River Patowmack, and the country of Virginia and Maryland around. Adjoining the above lots is another, containing 11½ acres; on which there has, for many years past, been a mill: It is an excellent mill-seat; but at present has only the remains of an old mill-house, standing upon a fine stream within a mile and a half of Alexandria.—About six miles from Alexandria, five from George-Town, and the same distance from the Little Falls, is another LOT, containing 185 acres, lying upon Lubber-Branch and Four-Mile-Run; upon which there is a considerable quantity of heavy white oak timber, and wood in great plenty; several acres of meadow may be made, and there is a good mill-seat upon it.—Upon the branches of Difficult-Run, about 18 miles from Alexandria, lying on the great road leading to Leesburg and Winchester, within 2½ miles of the canal at the Great Falls, and not more than 15 miles from George-Town, in Maryland, is a body of LAND, containing altogether 1619 acres, laid off into 10 lots of different sizes; the smallest 82, and the largest not more than 323 acres. This land is well watered and timbered, has improvements of plantations, houses, fencing, &c. In several parts of it the soil is good, and in many places well adapted for meadow and grass; and immediately on the main road is an excellent stand for a public house, which, with a little improvement, may be made a most valuable place, as it is extremely convenient for the business of a tavernkeeper.—Also, adjoining this tract, is another of 301 acres, called the MINE TRACT, in which there is a most valuable and rich mine of COPPER and SILVER. It was worked within these 40 years last past, and yielded to the satisfaction of the then partners; but, by their deaths and other circumstances, it has been neglected ever since. Two ninths of the ore in any part of the tract, and two ninths of the whole tract, we have the disposal of at present, and daily expect a power to sell two ninths more. The ease with which this mine may be worked, the most excellent quality of the copper, and its vicinity to the rising Towns of Alexandria, George-Town, Winchester, and Frederick-Town, and its being within 2½ miles of navigation, must render it an estate of great value, if it was in the hands of a person or persons who understand the business of mining, as, with very little expense, the ore may be raised.—About 50 miles from Alexandria, 40 from George-Town, 30 from Winchester, and 15 from Frederick-Town, in Maryland, lying along Patowmack River upwards of five miles, and between the Catostan-Mountain and Short Hills, is a rich and fertile body of LAND, called the CATOSTAN TRACT, containing 11973½ acres, on which there are upwards of one hundred farms; about half of them are leased for two and three lives, at Ten Dollars per 100 acres per annum, and the residue occupied by tenants at will, and may be rented in future at 5 to £. 15 per annum very readily. This land lies perhaps in as healthy, as beautiful and plentiful a country, as any in America. It produces all sorts of grain, tobacco, and hemp in abundance, and has meadows and mill-seats upon it; also an inexhaustible store of building and lime stone. We will sell it altogether, or in farms, as we can agree. If one person purchases the whole, we will extend the time of payment to the satisfaction of the purchaser, he giving us a security for payment in the land; or, if leases for lives are preferred, we will grant them at an annual rent of Ten Dollars per hundred acres, the lessee giving an adequate sum to be agreed on for such lease, payable every six months, in the same manner as herein before mentioned, in case of an absolute sale.—The title to the lands, the plats, and the powers to sell them, may be seen at any time by applying to the subscribers.

SIX hundred and thirty acres of LAND, lying in Hampshire county, Virginia, situated on the Great Capon river, which runs through it, and abounds with fine trout, and other fish, and on the premises are all kinds of game; two hundred acres of which are well calculated for meadow, (fifteen acres already made) about one hundred cleared and under good fence; a great part of it fresh, and in good order for corn, hemp or tobacco.—There are on the premises a tolerable good dwelling-house, a large and commodious good barn, and other out-houses, a good bearing orchard of excellent fruit.—It is well calculated for stock, as well on account of the quantity of meadow that is to be made, as its situation for an excellent range, equally good on both sides of the said river, and very extensive.—The land is generally very level, well timbered and watered with divers springs, and on the great road leading to Alexandria, Dumfries, and Frederickburgh, to Pittsburg, to the Western Settlements, and within 16 miles of the Borough of Winchester, (which is thought to be the most healthy situation, and the best for trade, of any inland town on the Continent) and a commodious place for a tan-yard, or a tavern.

Also, 965 acres in Harrison county, on the east side of Tyger's Valley river, below the mouth of Leading-Creek, 30 miles from the head-waters of Patowmack, which soon will be made navigable, as produce already comes down to George-Town.

806 acres on the waters of Piney-River and Paint-Creek, upon New-River in Montgomery county.
